The report of the Committee on Books and Periodicals was read and adopted as follows:

REPORT ON BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

It is hardly necessary to remind the Conference of the vast importance of circulating sound literature among our people. Piety and intelligence constitute the strength and fruitfulness of a denomination. And we believe that the wide diffusion of our books and periodicals is one of the most powerful agencies in building up these two pillars of a denomination. To keep abreast with this enlightened age, we must use all the resources within our power for the moral development and mental culture of our people. We have standard books in great abundance at our Publishing House, whose circulation would enlighten the people and help to carry on our publishing interest. We have periodicals up to the demands of the times that ought to be scattered over the country. The labor required in circulating this religious literature is not at all burdensome to the Preachers, but rather puts in their hands potent instrumentalities to spread their own legitimate work. We believe that a new era of denominational success would dawn upon us if all of our Ministerial strength was united and exerted in spreading abroad our literature.

Your committee take great pleasure in recommending all of our standard books sold by our Publishing House at Nashville; and especially do we commend the book of Sermons by Bishop Marvin; the book known as "Our Children," by Dr. Haygood, recently published. These are books of rare merit, very timely in their well matured themes and should be put in every family of our connection.

The Raleigh Christian Advocate, the organ of the North Carolina Conference, edited by Rev. J. B. Bobbitt, D.D., and R. T. Gray, Esq., is indespensible to the progress and success of North Carolina Methodism. The Advocate is large in size, beautiful in typography, sound in its financial condition, thoroughly Methodistic in its sentiment and doctrine, keeping abreast with the religious journals of the times, and merits by reason of its excellent editorial and select matter the widest circulation that our united energies can give it. Therefore, be it

Resolved, First, that we recommend it most heartily to the patronage of all our people.

Second, That we request the Bishop to reapppoint Rev. J. B. Bobbitt D.D., editor.

The Nashville Christian Advocate, edited by Rev. Dr. Summers, is the central organ of Southern Methodism. It abounds in general religious intelligence; is a sound and able expounder and defender of our Church polity, our peculiar theology and the time-honored usages of our denomination; besides all this it contains much excellent religious.

ious instruction on miscellaneous subjects. We therefore recommend this paper to the favor of our people; and also the Sunday School publications, edited by Rev. Dr. Cuningham. We trust that the valuable Sunday School Magazine, Visitor, and lesson papers will be used by all of our Sunday Schools. H. T. HUDSON, CHAIRMAN.

On motion of C. M. Pepper, the following were appointed a Committee on Temperance: B. Craven, C. M. Pepper, L. Shell, A. B. Thompson, R. L. Abernathy.

Centennial Addresses were then delivered by Rev. W. S. Black and F. C. Robbins.

The Committee on Education submitted Report No. 1, which was read and laid on the table for the present.

On motion of Dr. Wilson, the thanks of the Conference were tendered to Messrs. Black and Robbins for their very excellent addresses; and they were requested to furnish them for publication.

Question 20th was taken up, and the Elders on the Raleigh, Hillsboro, Greensboro, Salisbury, Shelby and Charlotte Districts passed the examination of character.

The Bishop announced Fraternal Messengers as follows: To the Yearly Meeting of Friends, Dr. Wilson and C. C. Dodson. To the Christian Church, H. H. Gibbons and T. J. Gattis.

On motion of J. P. Moore, the Bishop was authorized to draw on the Treasurer of the Conference Trustees, in favor of the Chairman of the Joint Board of Finance for $512.29.

The Conference then adjourned with the benediction.

Journal of the fourth day read and approved,

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That Rev. H. T. Hudson be requested to furnish for publication in the Raleigh CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, a copy of the sermon delivered by him to the under-graduates on last Thursday night.

Question 20th was again taken up and all the remaining elders passed the examination of character.

Question 18th was called and completed.

Dr. McFerrin addressed the Conference in the interest of the Publishing House.

Salisbury was selected as the place of the next Conference. Ouestion 7th was taken up.

L. J. Holden, L. E. Stacey, P. F. W. Stamey, W. H. Watkins and T. P. England passed to the fourth year.

The following was adopted:

Whereas, The Centennial Meeting of North Carolina Methodism held in Raleigh, March 21, 1876, passed resolutions instructing L. S. Burkhead, D.D., to publish the addresses delivered on that occasion in book And

Whereas, That book is now about ready to be delivered; and Whereas, The proceeds arising from the sale of the said book are to be applied in building the Methodist Metropolitan Church in the city of Raleigh: Therefore, be it

Resolved, That the preachers of this Conference pledge themselves to give special attention to the sale and circulation of this centennial book.

W. H. BOBBITT, W. D. LEE, JOHN W. LEWIS.

The Committee on Sunday Schools submitted their report. Adopted as follows:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Profoundly impressed with the magnitude of the interest committed to them, your committee have studiously endeavored to give it becoming consideration. It cannot be any longer regarded problematical that it constitutes one of the most important enterprises of the church of God. Upon it, to a very great extent, under the Divine blessing, rest the hope and promise of the church of Christ.

It is almost universally regarded as the pious nursery which is to furnish the church with an intelligent, exemplary and efficient membership. Indeed it is the prolific seed-bed from which are to be taken thousands of tender plants to beautify and adorn the garden of God. It is the opulent mine from which the precious ore is to be collected, refined and coined to enrich the pious treasury of the church of the world's Redeemer. The statistics of every important branch of the Christian Church show that they are mainly made up from the records of such as received first decided religious impressions in the Sabbath School. The high regard in which your committee hold the institution is not confined to themselves or their own communion, but is equalled in estimate by every denomination of Christians in our own vast country as, also, in all Christian lands.

The best minds and hearts of the church are called into requisition in the prosecution of the noble work. The whole church is engaged in laudable endeavors, and her whole strength and resources are laid under tribute to perfect and operate the machinery to greatest advantage. a consequence a large and unprecedented success has already crowned the efforts put forth. A bright, a brightening, a glorious future awaits the heaven-acknowledged enterprise.

Among the many priceless advantages derived from the institution is early conversion to God. How large a percentage of those who now lay themselves a life-offering upon the alter of God is from classes of our Sabbath Schools. This one fact alone is enough to challenge the profoundest gratitude of the church, and stimulate to best exertion. No doubt, the instructions of God-fearing pious teachers have much to do in bringing those committed to their care to a remembrance of their Creator in the days of their youth, but a potent influence is exerted upon the youthful mind and heart by the excellent Sabbath School literature emanating from the able and pious press of the church, now common in all our schools.

Allow your committee, however, to suggest that too much vigilence cannot be observed in order to exclude all pernicious doctrines from such literature as may be prepared or selected for use in our schools; and, further, that we discountenance all that does not strictly accord with the teachings found in our best standard doctrinal works.

It may be proper, also, to suggest that while we approve and heartily endorse the "International Lessons" furnished for and used in our schools, we do not consider them as adapted to every want of said schools, and, therefore, should not be allowed to substitute and exclude our excellent catechisms.

Your committee would, further, respectfully propose for adoption the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the design of all Sabbath Schools is to bring the children to Christ. 2nd, That while we regard it as the privilege of other communions to make and use such literature in their schools as they may prefer, we would most earnestly counsel our own people to use only such as may be recommended by our church. 3rd, That we do suggest that all our Sabbath Schools be organized into Missionary Societies, that the children under our care be trained to the observance of christian liberality.

4th, That we urge all our Ministers and people to join in a united effort to make our churches comfortable that our schools may be continued through the winter months.

5th, That we heartily endorse and recommend all our Sunday School literature issued from our publishing house at Nashville.

6th, That it is the opinion of this Conference that the International Lessons and our Catechisms ought to be used in every Sunday School, and we earnestly request each pastor to use his influence to introduce them into all the schools under his care.

7th, That each pastor be and is hereby requested to see that Mission Sunday Schools are established in communities at a distance from our churches when practicable.

8th, That the Sunday School ought to embrace not only the children and youth but also all the adults in each congregation.

9th, That when Sunday School exercises come in conflict with attendance of scholars and teachers on Divine service, the Quarterly Conference as a board of managers, should take such steps as may be necessary to correct the evil.

S. V. HOYLE, CHAIRMAN.

The following resolution was offered:

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Conference the SOUTHERN RE-VIEW, edited by Dr. Bledsoe, being profound and timely in its articles, is worthy of our commendation and patronage.

J. P. MOORE, W. S. BLACK.

Pending its consideration, the Conference adjourned with the benediction by B. Craven.

Whereas, Our blessed Lord, in His all-wise providence, during the last year has taken from us to the better home, our beloved brother, John W. Leak, Esq., of Rockingham, former Treasurer of the Board of Missions of this Conference; therefore,

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Leak this Conference sensibly feels its great loss, and the church of Christ mourns at the grave of her sainted dead.

2nd. That whilst we submissively lament the loss we have sustained by the departure of our brother, we at the same time rejoice in his eternal gain, and hall him, white-robed and crowned, upon Zion's hill.

On motion of R. S. Webb, a collection amounting to $78 was taken up to aid in educating young ministers in the Church represented by Bishop Bebee.

Report on Church Property read and adopted:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CHURCH PROPERTY.

From a careful investigation of the statistics reported during the present session of this Conference your committee rejoices to discover an active and commendable zeal manifested among our people on the subject of Church property. There has been in many localities a decided and marked advancement made during the year now closing in the repairing and building of houses of public worship. Our church has long suffered in many places for want of substantial and comfortable houses in which to preach the gospel; but we are glad to know that very much is now being done in this direction. And your committee think it safe to state there is an increasing intesest manifested throughout our borders as to the absolute demand for better churches. We most heartily approve of the building of a Metropolitan Church at our State capital as a timely and commendable project. It is to be hoped that as a denomination we will keep pace with the increasing demands for tasteful and attractive church buildings. If God directed that His holy Temple at Jerusalem should be built of the best and most enduring material, and commanded that its architectural structure should be imposing and its walls adorned and beautified in the most excellent manner, why may we not, as far as possible, follow the Divine pattern in beauty and attractiveness.

We would not forget to mention the great necessity of parsonages. This is so important a part of church-work that it addresses itself at once to the attention of every station and circuit in the Conference. We urge our people everywhere to provide, at the earliest day possible, a good and comfortable parsonage on every pastoral charge.

The committee deem it an essential part of their duty to call special

The committee deem it an essential part of their duty to call special attention to the necessity of securing and preserving good titles to all our church property. It is not enough to procure a deed and file it away—but see that it is properly recorded according to the law of the State. We recommend that our preachers and trustees look carefully to this subject of good titles and their lawful registration.

While we are aware that it does not come within the immediate bounds of this report, yet we beg leave to express our profound satisisfaction, that by the efficient means of the Joint Commission there has been an amicable and final settlement of the property question between the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Respectfully Submitted.

The reports of the Committee on education were amended and adopted as follows:

REPORT FROM THE COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION .- No. 1.

The Committee on Education has under consideration the various special interests that have been referred to it; but they are of opinion that some general expression of opinion by the Conference, touching the whole matter of education within our bounds, so far as the same may be under our control is at this time desirable; hence the following is recommended to the Conference for adoption:

The great commission: "Go ye into all the word and preach the Gospel to every creatue," carries with it the obligation to provide and properly use all auxiliary agencies and means best adapted to the end proposed, and has been so interpreted by the Appostles, the Fathers and the church generally through all ages. Hence any organization or disciplinary rule necessary to the internal or external development of the church, as specially effective in predisposing tendency to orthodox belief and fervent piety, is not less binding then the primary precept itself. Different agencies and means are indicated by geographical, historical and providential conditions; some become obsolete and some require change; some require special emphasis and some less attention; but in every age and among all peoples preaching carries with it a system of subsidiary forces, that largely determine its efficiency and the permanence of its results. In this age and country and in our church as well as in others, education is a potential force in the determinations of life, and an essential means in the whole field of work; outside of the church it is the greatest friend or the bitterest foe; within it is light and life and power, the defence of the creed and the champion of the faith. Hence we affirm:

T. The church must educate her sons and daughters. It is not enough to approve and require education, we must practically educate; we must only inquire what has been done, but must enforce the doing; our necessary connection with civil affairs demands it, our status as a people will be a failure without it; our piety, our church and the Lord Jehovah require it at our hands.

This general declaration involves two items:

First. Our children must be educated, not one sex alone, but both; not only for the ministry and the professions, but for all purposes; we must have the intelligence, discipline and culture of a high order of citizenship. The age of muscle has ended, and that of brain has begun; intellectual fitness as well as moral merit demands recognition everywhere, and no longer can men and women live respectably upon "bread alone." Not only do temporalities require and enforce educational effort; but christian morals and piety demand emancipation from the serfdom of ignorance.

Contracted views and prejudices, inherent in the weak and uninformed. must be removed before the Golden Rule can bind all society together, and the beauty of holiness commend our religion to all men. Discipline and development of mind as well as body, in this era of skilled action and enlarged thought, are necessary to a pious walk and a Godly conversation, and in every way the school can greatly help to plant the church everywhere and make it glorious, "not having spot or wrinkle or any such thing, but holy and without blemish." Material science, real and pretended, sweeping from microscopic animalcula to telescopic nebulae, and over the whole of time from the primal formless void to the present year of grace, is marshalled in compact array with negations running through all the books of God's word, and doubts of all things divine; a great national transcendentalism has taken a large place in the domain of pure thought, and shows itself both in Theology and daily life, in the cognate forms of Theism, Mysticism, Pantheism and Atheism, stigmatising all contrary creeds and opinions as illiterate, fanatical or logically absurd; while Statesmen and economists have detached christian mortality from the qualifications necessary in the discharge of public affairs and have constituted virtue for the citizen as such, without divine grace or a living God. meet these immense activities and hold the Ark of the Lord sacred in its holy place, the church through all ranks and orders must have intellect equal to the best, knowledge wide as human research has gone, and thorough discipline in every species of mental conflict.

Education is not now, if it ever was, a mere question of privilege; option no more belongs to it than to food and clothing; no man, who can do otherwise, has the right to send forth his children unprepared to meet the issues of life and death; and whoever can and will not educate his own offspring fails in positive duty, inflicts evil upon society, and sins against God. Education is a solemn duty inseparable from the parental relation, an expenditure to be counted in calculating the advisability of marriage, a natural birth-right of children, and those who defeat it must answer both in this world and that to come. This great work must not only be recommended, but required by the church as necessary to the ordinary discharge of christian duty.

Second. The church must not only educate her children, but must do the educating work; her sons and daughters must speak her own dialect and drink from her own sweet fountains. Whatever excellencies other denominations, anti-denomination and the so-called neutral world may have in scholarship, culture and thoroughly furnished Institutions, none of them can in all respects make the men and women we need for the work which the Great Head of the church has committed to our charge. What they can do in all classes and degrees of learning, so can we; what they will do in some things we do not want done; what they cannot do in many particulars, we do successfully. / We believe in our Articles of Faith, our general economy, and in our Discipline as a whole; we think they are true and wise, and we desire our children to love them and grow up under their influence. We know that education in its several particulars of substance, mode, quantity and quality, has a predisposing, predominating influence upon soundness of faith and fervor of piety, and that the schools of America to-day determine the church membership, or no-membership, of a vast majority of those who who attend them. Above all things we desire our children to be genuine christians; in our opinion no eclat of literary fame can compensate the loss of the Divine favor. Hence we are not willing to risk any thing upon this vital question. Without disparagement to others, we believe our form of religion best, surest and safest for us and ours. We desire our children to hear Methodist prayers, preaching and doctrines, to be in the atmosphere of our life and doctrines, and to feel the power of our songs, love-feasts and revivals. At an early age we would set them to work in various church duties, never let them enter those portals of fashion and amusement we believe to be wrong, and kindle in their young hearts a missionary zeal that would last through all life. We repel the intimation that we shall become narrow minded and illiber-We are missionaries by organization, catholic in creed and toltolerant by inclination, and are willing to test and be tested with and by all christians in all matters of christian fraternity and good fellowship, We simply desire to take care of our own to the best of our ability; and we think the command to bring up our children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, must refer to schools of all grades as well as to home life.

II. If we must do the teaching, determine the scholarship, execute the discipline, and supervise the religious instruction and moral requirements of the students, we must have full control of the Institutions whose students are separated from their homes. In primary schools and others whose pupils remain at their own homes, we have ample direction of religious teaching and culture and may safely unite with our neighbors of all protestant creeds, though even in these schools far less attention is given to the religious status than is imperatively demanded; but when the students are separated from their natural guardians; removed from childhood's church, social restraints and the home altar; distant from the father's authority and mother's sleepless care; thrown largely upon their own resources of restraint and self-direction; and subjected to the caprices, passions and temptations of congregated youth, then their school-home should be under decisive, undivided religious control. Not only should the control be of and from the church; but it should be fully and preponderatingly religious. 1 It is not enough to erect an organization on christian principles, enact a theoretical code of morals without the sustaining power of personal piety, and teach a Theology that is too general and indefinite to belong to any church. The college at least must be emphatically under the control of the religious life, and must have all its energies directed to those modes and forms of culture that are in full accord with the soul's salvation. Since higher institutions began to be, preachers both in number and office, have had eminent position in them, both as curators and professors. Their fitness for such position was inferable from the width and depth of culture demanded by their profession; their intimate acquaintance with the world and the condition of life, public and social, and their unequalled opportunities for extended and accurate observation; and the present commanding influence of education in all the lands of christian civilization is largely due to the prayers, the devoted attention, the liberality and the wise councils of the ministry. Statesmen, jurists, and other eminent citizens in civil life, are valuable and even essential in Boards of Trustees, or in faculties of instruction; but in all cases they should be pious men, practically and truly men of God.

The church has full competence to direct the education of her children; among her preachers and laity are men possessing the highest order of administrative ability, financiers equal to the best of the age, scholars who have comprehended the wisdom of the dead past, and all the systems of profoundest thought without denying the existence of God, and scientists who have trod the dusky halls of bone and shell, indentations and petrifactions without discrediting the Books of Moses. We can and must control the education of our sons and daughters; we need not confide it to others and must not. III. In order for control in a proper sense, the church must own her institutions for higher learning. She must become a landed proprietor having houses for worship, houses for teaching and the revenue.

necessary thereunto, and cemeteries for the dead.

As the corporate ownership of churches is necessary to perpetuity of title, to execute the interest of benefactors, to denominational and social harmony; and to the most successful work in the salvation of the people; so must our higher institutions with their endowments and appurtenances belong to the church as a corporation. They must be beyond vicisitude of death or caprice of individuals; safe from the fluctuations and passion of party triumphs or defeats, and firmly protected from the lawless claims and wild license incident to all secular organizations. Thus owned, constituted and protected, industry will consecrate a part of its scanty store to build and equip, piety will constribute fortune to religious uses, and age will gather around our sacred places of learning all needful forces of money, and the early memories of the noblest men and women, and pour aroma upon them from all the mountains of the Lord.

To teach or preach or live to best effect, we must stand upon our own soil and feel the vitality of ownership; we must not be dependent upon others, and thus be forced to submit to what we condemn, and to use our teaching talent to build what our preaching talent must constantly assail. We must have capital invested and teach it to work for God; and as patriotic and religious sentiment has here and there at sundry times and places contributed its hundreds of thousands to build or enrich higher institutions, so in this Conference and from our people will come large gifts to our colleges. Some have already been written in wills and otherwise designated, and multitudes of others will yet come as the church goes onward in glory and power. If we do not own our school property, the schools we may teach or patronize can never be made to represent us in religion, literature or culture; while the state, other denominations, and beliefs antagonistic to vital Godliness, each and all, have influential seats of learning as exponents of their scholarship and taste, and as effective agents to extend and perpetuate their opinions and power. Methodism cannot and must not fail in this most distinctive mark of mental and moral excellence. This is true generally, and especially within the bounds of the North Carolina Con-Perhaps in no part of the United States, have the reputation and practical results of Literary Institutions, both male and female, been brought to bear more effectively upon patronage, church relations, official positions and social affiliations; and here, as everywhere else, real or supposed superiority will attract the gifted and admirable, and will largely determine with whom and for whom they will work In this generous competition we can afford to hold no second place; we must be in the front and equal to the best. We must own and control colleges whose diplomas shall be letters of credence equal to any, and whose work both in strength and beauty shall be eclipsed by none.

IV. It is the duty of the church to build, equip and sustain such colleges as are needed within her bounds.

It is not a question of secondary importance, a luxury to be discontinued in stringent times, a call that may be postponed to a convenient season. It is a sacred, solemn duty resting broadly and clearly upon the whole church; a work which in God's providence is incumbent upon every member of the household of faith. We have the colleges; Trinity, Greensboro and Davenport are numerically, all we need; but subjectively, they are far from the condition in which they ought to be. They have a great work to do with very inadequate means; they must not fall below the standards of Institutions sustained by the most ample endowments. Our colleges are heavily in debt, not by extravagance but in spite of economy; and not to those who want the interest simply, but to those who want and must have the principal. These debts most seriously embarrass the Institutions in many ways: they cripple their energy, curtail their usefulness, and even threaten them and their responsible friends with disaster. The money due must be repaid, and at no distant day. The whole amount needed is not more than one dollar for each member of the Conferênce, a sum individually so small as not to be felt in the finances of any one year.

Hard as the times are we are able to pay our college debts. We can place them upon the solid rock independent and self-sustaining. As a great, glorious, growing church we can pay, but we dare not repudiate. The call is pressing, not only upon christian liberality, but upon duty springing from the necessities of God's church. If our colleges die we cannot hold our place and do the work required of us. They must neither languish nor die; but we must contribute largely, liberally and up to all reasonable requirements. To sustain these colleges is a part of our church duty; as we help them zeaulously with students and money God will increase our means, and give us still greater abundance. Let the whole church rally to our colleges and give them immediate.

No. 2.

The condition of our race is such that man's physical organization may be and is largely modified by a certain class of what are called vital functions, upon the integrity and healthful performance of these functions are predicated the future development and perfectness of his whole physical nature—and this physical development must not only precede, in point of time, his mental development, but will largely influence the strength and capacity of his mental faculties. There must, therefore, always be a certain ratio preserved between the development of his physical and mental or intellectual powers. If man would attain the high destiny for which he was created he must have a sound mind in a sound body.

A recognition of the general laws of our nature would, we think, greatly improve our system of education.

It is a matter of serious regret that a truth that so deeply concerns and palpably underlies all our efforts to intellectually, and to this extent, morally elevate our race, should even, at this day, be so little regarded. Instead of occupying the first position in point of importance in our schools and in our families, it is commonly subordinate or entirely ignored. Although it is true that parents ought to train their children with reference to their physical development; and although it is the province of medical science to lay down rules and regulations for so doing (and this it has done), the control of the province of medical science to lay down rules and regulations for so doing (and this it has done), the province of the province of

This, of course, will never be done until these recognize its primary importance and give it its proper place and position in their course of study. The absence of this physical training and a want of a knowledge of its importance is one reason why so large a proportion of the educated of both sexes at this day are an exhaused, broken down family. The victims of a misguided policy, or the martyrs of a misguided ambition.

Education contemplates the preservation of the man or woman for the future duties, obligations and responsibilities of life; as a pre-requisite for the discharge of these duties. Physical vigor and maturity are just as important and indispensible as mental training and development, and any system of education that fails to recognize this fact must be regarded as defective in a very essential feature.

In giving utterance, therefore, to views and principles that lie at the very foundation of every rational system of education we bespeak for this matter such position and prominence as its importance demands.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

No. 3.

Resolved, 1st, That the plan heretofore in use for raising the money necessary to pay the college debts be continued.

Report of the Committee on the Bible Cause was adopted:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE BIBLE CAUSE.

The Bible is the foundation of our faith, the rule of our practice, and the inspired source of our hopes, as it is the pledge of our pardon and the guarantee of our eternal salvation.

The great importance of disseminating spiritual truth among the various nations, kindreds and tongues of earth is appreciated by all who would improve the moral status of society, and see the fulfilment of the inspired prophecy: "The kingdoms of this world have become the kingdoms of the Lord and His Christ."

In the American Bible Society we recognize an institution whose establishment was from God, and which has been blessed by Him to the enlightenment, pardon, and spiritual edification of millions of the great family of man. Therefore,

Resolved, That the clerical members of this body be requested to present the Chairman of the Bible Cause, as represented by the American Bible Society and auxiliaries, once a year to each of their congregations, take up collections, and report the sum raised to the annual Conference. And,

Whereas, Much expense can be saved in the work of distributing the Holy Scriptures by voluntary effort in connection with the all-pervading facilities of the American Bible Society and its agencies.

Resolved, That we commend to all our people, clerical and lay, earnest diligence in the use of their opportunities for the discovery and supply of the destitute with the written word of God as a christian duty, and a reasonable service.
